

LINEMEN ARE ON A STRIKE

About Eighteen Hundred of Them Employed in the West, Walk Out Today.

TIES UP SERVICE

From British Columbia to Arizona, the Entire System Is Now Paralyzed.

(Special By Scripps-Mellae.) San Francisco, Cal., June 23.—Eighteen hundred linemen employed by the Pacific State Telephone company struck this morning. The men went out along the entire line and from British Columbia to Arizona the lines of the company are paralyzed. It will also stop much work of extending lines to other points which are now under way.

Has Been Expected. The present strike has been expected for some time past and it has been hoped that it would be settled by arbitration. The men have stood firm for their demands and have recently organized a complete union of all employees. The linemen were the point from which the strike was to be started.

Want an Increase. The linemen have asked for a fifteen per cent. increase and have refused to accept an eight per cent. They claim that unless their demands are granted the entire system will be tied up and no messages allowed to be sent or delivered.

TELLS OF LOOT BY OFFICERS

Old Stories of Theft in Manila After Its Capture, Are Revived.

Manila, June 23.—The charges that American officers looted public buildings in Manila after the surrender of the city in 1898 have been revived and may possibly lead to a formal investigation. Recently the authorities endeavored to locate art objects belonging to the municipal museum and the inquiry showed they had been given to a Filipino to take care of after the surrender. The Filipino officers proved that some officers received the pictures and it is claimed that a former staff officer abstracted a silver service from the Malacanang palace.

Gov. Taft, who has been at Benguet for some time, returned to Manila today in excellent health. The Philippine commission has resumed its regular sessions. Plans are being discussed for the elaborate development of Benguet by the expenditure of half a million dollars on government buildings at the summer capital. Benguet may become a permanent capital of the Philippines, according to present arrangements, when the railway line to that city is completed.

FIGHT PANAMA CANAL TREATY

Colombian Senator Declares Hanging Too Good for Minister Herran.

Panama, Colombia, June 23.—According to the latest mail advices from Bogota, Senator Juan Perez Soto recently published a violently worded article against the Hay-Herran canal treaty, ending it by saying that for such acts as those of Herran hanging was not an adequate punishment.

This bitter article immediately called forth a vigorous protest, which was sent to Bogota by many representative men of Panama and Colon, including members of the conservative and liberal parties. This protest is as follows:

We read with indignation the violent letter published recently in El Correo Nacional by Senator Perez Soto against the Hay-Herran treaty, containing unjustified attacks on Herran. The opinions expressed in that letter are merely personal and do not reflect the views of a majority of the isthmians. We hereby energetically protest against the statements contained in the letter.

It is believed Senator Perez Soto's resignation was the result of the isthmians' protest. His resignation is also perhaps partly due to the fact that Perez Soto expected the canal men would be defeated in congress. More municipalities are adopting resolutions in favor of the ratification of the Hay-Herran treaty.

COUP D'ETAT WAS SPRUNG AT MALTA

British Government Suspends Constitution of 1887, and Substitutes the 1849 One.

Valletta, Island of Malta, June 23.—The government, by a minor coup d'etat, has abrogated the Malta constitution of 1887 and substituted the one granted in 1849.

By this step the legislative council will hereafter be composed of eight elected members and nine government members instead of fourteen and six, respectively, as heretofore. Some such action had been expected in consequence of the trouble about the language question. The elected members under the 1887 constitution objected to the predominance of the English language in the schools, and recently defeated the education appropriation for the current year.

Under the new conditions the government will control the legislative council.

TRUST MAKES NO CHANGE IN LAW

English Tobacco Company Held to Contracts, Despite Sale to Trust.

London, June 23.—By decision of Lord Chief Justice Alverston the English Tobacco company must distribute among its retail customers the sum of $1,000,000 annually for four years. The decision made this agreement with their customers during the tobacco war and afterwards sold out to the Imperial Tobacco company, repudiating payment of the bonus. The court holds that the English company was not relieved of these contracts by the sale of its business and its incorporation into the Anglo-American combine.

JUDGE ORDERS WIFE TO WHIP HER SPOUSE

Veteran Soldier Agrees to Refrain From Squandering Pension Money for Drink.

Lexington, Ky., June 23.—Henderson Cass, aged 76 years, a veteran of the civil war, was horsewhipped in public by his wife by the order of Police Judge Riley. The woman had lodged a complaint against her husband, claiming that he was squandering his pension money and was drunk a great deal of the time. He was brought into court and told Judge Riley that he wanted to have a good time.

The judge asked the abused wife why she did not whip him and she said she could do it all right if he said she might. Judge Riley replied: "Well, I will get you a whip and see that you do it."

He told Driver Wallace to bring him a buggy whip, and, arming the woman with the whip, he told her to march her husband into the station house lobby and lay it on him until she got tired. The woman did so.

The husband at first took the matter as a joke and laughed, but soon he began to realize after the woman began laying on him after lick with full force that she was in earnest, and he begged her to stop. He promised to be sober and a good husband and she stopped.

In one made to the officers in the barracks the emperor lauded the army as a national institution, calling it a magnificent school for the education of youth. In a national sense, he said, the army must have not only such regulations, tactics, and strategy, but pride and joy in the service.

"Then," added the emperor, "my army will never remain the instrument that I need to support my policy when necessary." He concluded with quoting Frederick the Great's remark: "Where the pen alone no longer suffices it must be supplemented by the keen edged sword."

WOMAN'S ABSENCE PUZZLES THE POLICE

Mystery Surrounds the Disappearance of Angelina Brown From Her Sister's Home.

Carbondale, Ill., June 23.—The mystery surrounding the sudden disappearance of Angelina Brown from her home near Centerville deepens as the days pass and no clue is secured. Mrs. Brown for years has been a member of the family of her sister, Mrs. Hatcher. Their relations are supposed to have been pleasant. It is believed by some that an old abandoned cellar partly filled with debris may solve the mystery and the place will be thoroughly cleared. An odd coincidence in the affair is found in the fact that a brother of the missing woman left home under peculiar circumstances forty years ago and after eighteen years as suddenly as he disappeared he walked again into his home. The authorities believe the present case is anomalous and that the woman is alive.

DELAWARE MOB BURNS NEGRO

The Victim Confesses to Assaulting and Murdering a White Girl.

GUARDS SHOOT 4

Mob Formed, and Led by a Virginian, Attacked Workhouse, Securing Prisoner.

(Special By Scripps-Mellae.) Wilmington, Del., June 23.—The lawless vengeance wreaked upon George White a negro, last night by burning him to the stake for the assault and murder of seventeen year old Helen Bishop has left the city today a victim of its contending emotions. It is the first time that the lynch law has been enacted in this state. There will be an investigation but it is not thought probable that any persons will be punished for their share in the proceedings.

Story of Deed. George White the murderer of Miss Helen S. Bishop, was taken from the New Castle County workhouse at 12:15 o'clock this morning by a mob of 4,000 men. From the workhouse the mob marched to the spot where the crime was committed. The negro confessed to having assaulted and murdered the girl. He was then burned at the stake and his body riddled with bullets. The mob gained entrance to the prison after a desperate fight, in which four of its members were shot by the police and seriously wounded. One of the wounded is Peter Smith, 17 years old, who is at the Delaware Hospital with a ball in his back.

Prisoners Escape. When it secured the negro the mob hastened from the prison without stopping to close the doors it had battered down, and it is reported a large number of prisoners escaped. The mob used a battering ram and worked for nearly two hours to break down five doors. The negro was in a state bordering on insanity, and repeatedly screamed he was innocent.

Chief of Police Black pledged that he would see the man would be given a speedy trial, but the mob swept by him and his officers. The shooting of four men by the workhouse guards had served to madden the mob, and the police and guards withdrew to the prison proper. Unwilling to pour a volley of bullets into the dense throng, the police turned a stream of water from a hose on the mob. Most of the attackers only jeered at this method of defense.

Preacher Urges Lynching. The mob was led by about twenty men dressed as women and on horseback. It was known all day in Wilmington that a well organized attempt would be made to lynch White. A prominent preacher Sunday told his congregation White should be lynched. The father of the murdered girl replied with an address begging that the law be allowed to take its course. Not until the mob had actually assembled were police reinforcements sent to the prison.

Details of the Crime. White's crime was most revolting. The victim, Miss Helen S. Bishop, daughter of Rev. E. A. Bishop, D. D., superintendent of the Ferris Industrial School, would have been 18 years old next October. She was on her way back from the Wilmington High School when attacked. At Price's Corner, near her home, the girl left the trolley car. Late in the afternoon a farmer saw her stagger and fall in the road. She got up and fell again, and then tried to crawl. When the farmer and his sons reached the girl she was unconscious. She had three ugly gashes in her throat, her body was badly scratched and her clothing was torn in many places. She clutched a small penknife, and there was every evidence that Miss Bishop had made a desperate resistance in defense of honor and life. The wounded girl died the next afternoon without regaining consciousness.

Negro Is Captured. A man hunt was immediately instituted. Suspicion was soon fastened on George G. White, a negro laborer on the farm of Edward Woodward, near the scene of the assault. White was taken into custody and denied all knowledge of the crime, but was identified by several persons who said they saw him in the vicinity of the scene of the crime. A knife which Mrs. Woodward said belonged to him was found where the girl was assaulted. His confession to the mob was the signal for a rush to the scene of the summary execution. Failure to give White a speedy trial is considered largely responsible for the lynching. Saturday night two attempts to storm the jail and lynch him were foiled.

CALIFORNIA HAS GOOD IRRIGATION

Milwaukee Man Describes the System of Reclaiming the Arid Deserts of the West.

C. B. Whitnall, who recently returned from a four months' stay in California, made a comparative study of the horticultural conditions there, basing his observations on a visit to the coast made eighteen years ago, and came to the conclusion that skill and energy and not natural climatic elements are the causes of the wonderful progress made in agricultural and horticultural pursuits. He returned home impressed with the belief that in Wisconsin natural resources, which in California are being created by the expenditure of time and money, are being thrown away.

"I refer to the destruction of the forests, and, incidentally, to the eradication of the natural means of storing up rainfall," said Mr. Whitnall in the Sentinel. "In this state nature provided wooded marshes to hold the water and reservoirs in the hills to contain it, distributing it gradually through brooks and rivers. By cutting away the woods without reforesting and by draining the marshes, the natural reservoirs have been destroyed. In California the rain fall is large, but it runs off in a short time and did no good to the country, which remained a desert until artificial means were employed. Since my first visit thousands of immense reservoirs have been constructed and the desert tracts have reclaimed and made profitable farms. Anyone who buys a ranch there buys the right to a certain number of inches of water annually, and it is provided for in his deed. The supply is more certain than the natural rainfall could be, and the crops are protected. All that is needed is to open the sluice gates and the allotted amount of water runs out upon the fields.

Studying Waters Effect on Fruit.
"The California fruit raisers are making a scientific study of experiments of the effect of water on fruit. Experiments show that if the fruit orchards are profusely watered, the peaches or apples will attain a great size, while lacking in sweetness and flavor. It was told that peaches or other small fruit raised in stiff clay land were sweeter, though smaller, than the same variety of fruit raised on richer soil. Complaints that have been made of tasteless California fruit may be justified, but an imperfect comprehension of the effect of water on the soil and the tendency to use water too lavishly without considering what kind of land it is placed upon, are responsible for this falling, and I predict that the day will come when the California fruit will be much better and sweeter. The fact is that fruit raisers in a single county produce almost as many varieties of fruit as there are degrees of soil in the area.

"California has a forestry commission and it is active. Shade trees along the roads flourish in places that had no trees eighteen years ago. Forests are being planted to increase the wood supply, and methods, govern the cutting of these trees. The best example of the results applied forestry is the boulevard that has been laid out between San Francisco and the Golden Gate. The trees are in regular rows, and give the place the appearance of natural woodlands, being thrifty. When I remember how barren the country in the neighborhood of the Golden Gate and Los Angeles was in 1855, I find my belief in the benefits of forestry greatly strengthened.

Pasadena's Sewage Fed Farm.
"One of the unique institutions I saw was the city farm at Pasadena, by which the question of disposing of garbage was solved. The city wanted to drain the sewers into the river at Los Angeles, but the corporation asked an exorbitant price for that privilege and the plan was abandoned. A farm of 500 acres, a few miles from Pasadena was bought, and all the sewage is made to flow upon it. A farmer and four or five men take charge of it, and it paid 7 percent on the investment last year. A day or two before I visited the place, a single sale of $5,000 worth of walnuts raised on the farm was made. Grains and other agricultural produce also are raised, but the walnuts have proved so good a crop, that the number of trees is to be increased. I understood that the city farm had been in operation for four years. I wish other cities could see this farm. Though conditions are different from those existing in the California city, I am certain that some similar way of solving the garbage question would prove feasible here."

AUXILIARY RAISES MONEY FOR PIANO

Entertainment Given Last Evening to Secure Funds Needed for Last Payment on Piano.

In the handsomely decorated auditorium of the Y. M. C. A. building, which had been adorned with a profusion of flowers—syringas, peonies, roses, locust branches, and palms, the Woman's Auxiliary of the Young Men's Christian association presided over a delightful entertainment last evening.

Selections by the orchestra of the First M. E. church, by a ladies quartette, and by a mixed quartette met with great favor.

Readings by Miss Pearl Willey were another pleasing feature of the evening.

Light refreshments were served the large audience.

The purpose of the entertainment was the raising of the sum of money needed to make the last payment upon the piano which the auxiliary purchased not long ago.

Ex-Supt. D. D. Mayne visited H. C. Buell for a couple of hours last evening on his way to Madison.

BELOIT STUDENTS LISTEN TO TALK

Dean Alderson of Armour Institute
Delivered a Forceful Talk
Last Night.

"Industrial evolution at the dawn of this century, for us educators, spells technical education," said Dean Victor C. Alderson of Armour Institute in an address at Beloit college last night. "It means the education, not merely of the library and the cloister, but the education of the laboratory, the shop and the drafting room; the training that prepares for industrial pursuits, not other training does for law, medicine, theology or teaching.

"For years we have been inventing labor-saving devices, designing new and marvelous mechanisms, but we have neglected to supply the technically trained man with knowledge to care for and operate them. This man, the plain man of the people, eager to be a useful American citizen and a more efficient worker, is asking for educational assistance. Upon our answer of the question, whether or not we shall extend to him a helping hand, depends the future prosperity of our country."

The address of Dean Alderson was given in connection with the commencement week programme, the only other feature of the day being the awarding of prizes in the declamatory contests.

In the prize declamatory contests for the young men and young women if the freshmen class the Orvis prize fell to George H. Walker, colored, of Franklin, La., and the Rountree prize to Minnie L. Wallace of Wau-pun. A second prize was awarded Blanche E. Boyden of Sparta by D. A. Knowlton of Freeport, Ill., for special excellence. The judges were Rev. Frank S. Brewer, New Hartford, Conn.; Rollo L. V. Lyman, Harvard university, and William H. Wheeler, Ithaca, N. Y., all alumni.

ENGINEERS SAY, GO FULL SPEED

When Cattle Get on the Track, Go Over Them as Fast as Possible.

Engineers claim that in most cases when an animal is seen just ahead on the track, that the best and safest thing to do is to pull the throttle open and "let her go." If they try to slow down the cow or sheep that is in the way is more likely to get caught under the wheels and throw the engine off the track. If the train is going at a likely clip the force of the collision usually throws the animal clear off the train, although there is not often much left of the beast. This is what happened to a train from Chicago yesterday morning. Rounding a curve near Spring Grove, about sixty miles from here, then men in the cab saw a flock of sheep on the track just ahead of them. There was nothing to do but to go into them, so we did, said the engineer. When the train reached Janesville sections of more or less roasted lamb scattered over the front end of the locomotive.

The same engineer related that one dark night as they were turning a curve at a speedy gait, the headlight revealed three good sized calves sleeping on the track ahead; there was no time to stop, and when they did slow down and looked for the yearlings, two were found in a mixed up condition twenty feet to one side of the track and the third over thirty feet in the field on the other side. They never woke up.

SAND IS A VERY IMPORTANT ITEM

RAILWAYS USE LARGE QUANTI-TIES YEARLY.

MUST BE DRIED BEFORE USE

Two Men Are Kept Busy Each Day
Sorting and Arranging It for Engines.

It costs a big railway, like the North-Western or St. Paul roads, thousands of dollars each year to start and stop its locomotives in wet and slippery weather. The fact that a railroad would be almost helpless without a supply of sand or some equivalent, is not thought of by some people and perhaps a few do not know that such an article is used at all in connection with the business. Forty-five carloads or 1125 tons of the little grains are used every year by the North-Western road in Janesville alone, and to keep their engines, that rush into the city of Chicago, supplied, a carload is consumed every day in the year, on an average. When it is considered that every carload means twenty-five tons, one can appreciate how important a part this department is in a railway. Nearly all large railroads own sand pits, but the cost of loading, unloading and preparing the material is considerable.

Supply on the Engine.
On the engine, the supply of sand is kept in the dome that is situated on the top of the boiler and goes from this through pipes which extend on each side down near the wheel just above the track. In foggy or wet weather or when there is sleet or snow, the wheels slip on the wet rails and when the sand falls on the rails it gives the wheel something to catch hold with, and enables the locomotive to start the train.

The sand, as it is taken from the pit, is not in a condition to be used in the engine. The large pebbles must be taken from it and the finer part dried. Very fine sand is not good, neither can large pebbles be used. Much of the sand that is used by the North-Western line in Janesville is brought from pits along the shore of Lake Michigan, near Sheboygan.

Drying Process.
When here, it is first run into the "sand house," then screened and placed in a hopper, where it is heated, in order to dry the particles so that it can be managed more easily. This hopper holds about two wagon loads at a time and is heated by means of a stove placed underneath it. From here it is again forced through a screen and by means of compressed air is forced into the sand tower where it is kept until run into the sand box on the engine. The locomotive requires a fresh supply after every trip. Two men are constantly at work taking care of the sand supply down at the North-Western and two at the St. Paul yards.

If some person would invent a practicable substitute for this purpose, that would really do the work and more cheaply, his fortune would be made.

Substitute Magnetism.
A company has been started recently, in Chicago, who claim that they have a successful method, but the efficiency of this system is not as yet generally known. They claim to substitute magnetism for dead weight to increase adhesion between the drive wheels and the rails. That it does away with slipping wheels, under all conditions of rails, and does not change the present conditions of equipment. Also that it increases the efficiency of the present brake 300 per cent.

FOREIGNER SAYS GIRLS ARE COLD

Student of Northwestern University, from Buenos Ayres, Decides
Co-eds Are Chilly.

"American college girls are queer. I cannot understand them. They are so masculine, so headstrong. I like our South American girls better. They have not the higher education, but they have hearts. Neither are American girls so beautiful as our South American girls. I would never marry an American girl."

So said Julian P. Muty, native of Buenos Ayres and student at Northwestern university, to an American Reporter, who started an anti-kissing, pro-segregation society of his own yesterday. After a year's patient wrestling with the English language and the "co-ed" problem in Evanston, young Muty packed his trunks for the return voyage to the Argentine Republic.

Young Muty entered Northwestern last fall. His father, Carlos J. Muty, a wealthy cattleman, with ranches miles square just outside Buenos Ayres, had sent him to Chicago to learn American ways—to annex an American wife, too, it is said.

But Julian, either because the Evanston co-eds were cold or because he had left his heart behind him in Argentina, was proof against Cupid's wiles and will sail home next week without a fiancée. That, too, despite the fact that his mother was a French woman of noble blood, who bequeathed to him an oblique title to the Dukedom of Polonia. And leaving he drove back to a Parthian arrow at the Purple's fairest. "Marriage isn't a question of the higher mathematics," he declared at parting, "but of love and warm hearts."

DOINGS AT THE RAILWAY CENTER

The action of the Wisconsin Central in the rate war is wide reaching in its effect, as lines east of Chicago will be able to schedule rates through to St. Paul at a rate of $3.50 less than they have been scheduling them.

The scheme of training trainmen up to the necessary duties as emergency surgeons in cases of collisions has been taken up by the Pennsylvania road at Philadelphia and may be extended over the whole Pennsylvania system.

The Pennsylvania has ordered 202,000 tons of steel rail to be delivered for next year, being the largest order ever given by the company. The rails will lay nearly 1,300 miles of track.

Summer Wash Goods

Here is an opportunity to buy them much under the regular prices. Pre-inventory sales held by the various Chicago wholesale houses within the past week was the means of securing a choice collection of desirable styles in their wash goods, such as fine lace stripe organdies, dimities, batiste, etc., in such colorings as pink, blue, lavender, also white groups with black and colored figures, and black ground with white and colored figures. About fifty pieces in the lot, regular values of which would be up to 35¢ per yard. All on sale 18¢ at a choice per yard. Other special value lines of wash goods at 5 cents, 10 cents and 12½ cents, all of which represent higher cost lines.

Skirts and Suits

This end of the store is a busy place every day, and the present is a very good time to buy a suit as prices are down to a low basis. Skirts of Brillantines, Etamines, Crashes, &c. are selling well and you will find all the new ideas here.

June Millinery

Miss O'Neil in her visit to the Chicago market last week secured some choice styles suitable for the summer season, including pattern hats as well as a big line of outing hats, and the present display of late novelties is worth a visit to see. Take a short cut and walk through.

WISCONSIN WEATHER FORECAST

Fair and warmer tonight and Wednesday.

EAST ST. LOUIS

The character of the site on which East St. Louis is built—an alluvial deposit swiftly and easily converted by water into a deliquescent mass—was mentioned on this page some days ago as affording ground for serious apprehensions as to the effect of the great flood upon the stability of the buildings. These apprehensions appear to have been well founded. Not only have great numbers of buildings been rendered unsafe but long stretches of streets, raised some years ago to the higher level then planned for the city, and capped with expensive pavements, have slumped away. It is feared that the whole costly job of raising the level will have to be done over again when the site shall have finally died out. The wet alluvium is from sixty to a hundred feet deep; so the difficulties of the situation may be imagined. It seems that Armourdale, opposite Kansas City was built on a similar site, and that there the water has played equal or even greater havoc, the size of the place considered, the population being just half that of East St. Louis—16,000 as against 22,000. Not a house in Armourdale, it is said, has escaped injury, nearly all being undermined or displaced. It is fortunate that each one of these places is "next-door neighbor" to a great city filled with people able and willing to assist in the rehabilitation of their homes and places of business. But Kansas City should not be left unaided in caring for the drowning thousands of Armourdale.

MINNESOTA

Horace Greeley didn't think much of Minnesota, but freely admitted that it could be used for raising "potatoes and saw logs" says the Pioneer Press. Since then its people have shown that they can raise quite a bunch of other things, including juries of phenomenal acquitting powers. Nevertheless, Horace, when he mentioned potatoes, really touched on one of our state's strong points. Let potatoes fall wherever else they will in Minnesota they are a sure crop. They take to Minnesota soil as naturally as the girls took to kissing Hobson. Just now when potatoes are reported likely to be a short crop in many states, our farmers will apparently do well if they make the most of their opportunities. It is not yet too late to plant enough potatoes to enable Minnesota to make good the shortage of all New England Kansas and several other states.

AUTO ON THE FARM

It was inevitable that the auto would break into agriculture sooner or later, but it did so in Ohio not long ago in a rather spectacular manner. A fire in some grass threatened to cause damage on a farm, one of the owners of which happened to have an automobile. The situation called for quick work in plowing a break. The auto was hitched to a two horse plow, and sent through the field at a five mile gait. The experiment worked so well that the auto was soon afterwards hitched to a two horse mower. The result was that an acre and a half of grass which it usually took from two and a half to three hours to cut was cut in half an hour. If such results as these can be obtained in so crude a way it will not be long before automobile plows, rakes, mowers and other implements will find a market. Simple attachments would so easily make the power available for loading and unloading that before many years farm work is not unlikely to be much lighter than it is.

POPCORN

One of the American "institutions" likely to be transplanted in Europe as a result of a visit of a group of German agricultural experts and scientists to this country is popcorn. These gentlemen who first saw popped corn and the process of popping it when in Iowa, and were immensely tickled with it. They will carry back packages of seed corn and of the popped article; and no doubt, ere long, in many German kitchens will be heard the music of bursting kernels, while the air carries to the nostrils the ministries of a new delight. Whatever debt we owe Germany for her gift of wieners and pretzels will be more than cancelled when we make her acquainted with popcorn.

FORESTRY

When the youths in our schools, show themselves interested in forestry, read Gen. Andrews' reports, and make it the theme of their essays the prospect is gold that the generation soon to control the destinies of Wisconsin will do its best to remedy the evil wrought by their "lumbering" fathers and grandfathers, and to advance more scientific methods.

PRESS COMMENT.

Boston Advertiser.—W. W. Astor has offered $1,000 to erect a statue of William the Silent. There was a good deal of talk about the project before Mr. Astor, who is expatriated, offered his contribution. Now everyone is as silent as the original William.

MACLEAN CHOSEN THE PRESIDENT

ART STUDY COMPANY ELECTED OFFICERS THIS MORNING.

CONCERN WILL MOVE AT ONCE

Plant Will Be in Operation by the 15th of July—Good Industry for Janesville.

This morning the formal transfer of stock of the Art Study Company from the Illinois to the Wisconsin company was made in the office of Attorney John Cunningham. The stock of the company was increased from twenty-five thousand dollars to fifty thousand dollars, a new board of directors was chosen and new officers of the company elected. A report of the old officers of the company showed that the works of the company is being packed up at Chicago and will be shipped here at once and that the cotton mill has been leased and all will be in operation by the fifteenth of July.

Matter of Form
The transfer of stock was a matter of form as the old company was incorporated under the laws of Illinois while the new incorporators, C. C. MacLean, Nona MacLean and A. E. Bingham all reside in Wisconsin. The articles were drawn up by Attorney Cunningham under the direction of Mr. MacLean and were filed last week with the secretary of state.

Those Present
The stockholders present this morning who made the transfer were J. C. Post, Holland, Mich.; H. C. Maley, Chicago; V. S. Pease, Chicago, and C. C. MacLean, Janesville. Albert Dickenson, Chicago; C. M. Harvey, Chicago; E. W. Hills, Chicago, and Captain E. M. Supplee, U. S. A., were other stockholders whose proxies were represented. The stock was formally transferred to the new company and a board of directors elected.

The Board Elected
The board of directors chosen were J. C. Post, Holland, Michigan; H. C. Maley, Chicago; V. S. Pease, C. C. MacLean and H. P. Bliss. These in turn met and elected the following officers of the company: President, C. C. MacLean; vice-president, H. P. Bliss; secretary and treasurer, V. S. Pease.

Move at Once
The report showed that the company was already at work packing up the material now in the Chicago office and that the same would be shipped here at once. The portion of the old cotton mill had been leased and work on placing it in proper repair was to begin at once. It was estimated that by July 15 it would be in working order and from that time on it would have become a regular Janesville industry.

Will Move Here
Mr. V. S. Pease will move at once from Chicago and bring with him the heads of nine departments and their families. These men will be here this next week so as to have everything in shape for the opening of the plant at the scheduled time. Mr. Post of Holland, Michigan, is a member of the board of directors of twenty-three other corporations and is very favorably impressed with Janesville and its facilities for shipping and labor.

SMALL BOY MET WITH AN ACCIDENT

Little Herman Schefferlein Broke
His Leg at a Picnic up the River.

Only one incident marred the perfect enjoyment of the picnic of St. Paul's parochial school at Crystal Springs park today.

Little Herman Schefferlein, furnishing the motive power for a swing in which two or three children were seated. He was standing at one end of the arc which the swing seat described and another boy at the opposite extremity. As the swing came within his reach he would grasp it and send it back with greater force. As he was clinging to the swing in this way he fell, and as the swing returned he was struck full in the thigh, shortly above his knee, fracturing his leg.

C. D. Voils, who has had some hospital experience, was present and bandaged the boy's leg in a way that answered the purpose until he could be brought downtown.

About 125 boys and girls attended the picnic. The G. A. R. 11th and drum corps escorted them to the steamer.

BOARD INSPECTS BUILDINGS

School Commissioners Make Annual Trip to See Repairs Needed.

The school board yesterday made the rounds of about half of the school buildings of the city and examined the condition of the buildings as regards repairs needed. The Webster, Douglas, Jackson, Washington, and Grant schools were inspected yesterday, and the usual number of summer repairs ordered. The remaining schools—the Jefferson, Adams, Lincoln, and high school—will be visited later.

ATHLETIC SEASON SUCCESS

Results of Present Financial System of High School Are Gratifying.

As a result of the past year's athletics in the high school the treasury has a balance of about sixty dollars to show for the year's work in football, basketball, and track and field athletics. Every branch of the sport has been under the entire control of Athletic Director W. B. Norris. In past years the season has shown an almost equal amount on the opposite side of the ledger.

Was on Witness Stand.

Sheriff Appleby, Turnkey Graves, Supt. Hutton and Woletz himself told Judge Phipps this morning what they knew of Anton Woletz's connection with the escape of his son from the Waukesha Industrial school.

Woletz averred that he did not aid the son—John Woletz—to escape, and that he did not consider it needful to tell the sheriff, who was responsible for the boy's safe-keeping that the lad had gone.

from Industrial School,
Was on Witness Stand.

Sheriff Appleby, Turnkey Graves, Supt. Hutton and Woletz himself told Judge Phipps this morning what they knew of Anton Woletz's connection with the escape of his son from the Waukesha Industrial school.

Woletz averred that he did not aid the son—John Woletz—to escape, and that he did not consider it needful to tell the sheriff, who was responsible for the boy's safe-keeping that the lad had gone.

According to his narrative he had sent the boy to the train Wednesday evening to return to Waukesha, but the boy missed the train, but in the interim the lad slipped out. His story was calculated to give the impression that he had not fully understood the conditions of safe keeping imposed upon him when the youngster was allowed to return on Sunday to his mother's funeral.

Two more witnesses—Joo Lightner and Henry Hock, in whose presence Woletz had made certain statements in regard to the visit of the boy to his home—were desired to give their testimony, and as they had not been previously subpoenaed the case was held over until this afternoon when they were heard.

Woletz Dismissed
After the two witnesses had been heard this afternoon, Judge Phipps dismissed Woletz, his action being based on the danger of its being impossible to convict the defendant beyond the shadow of a doubt in case of a jury trial. Rather than incur the expense of a trial with the possibility of such results, the prisoner was allowed to go.

There was rather a pathetic scene as the attorney for the defense was making his plea, and the prisoner for the defense wept copiously as he listened to the story of his son's return for the funeral.

Wood Is Captured
For many months the police have been pursuing a quiet search for George Wood, the first ward young man who was regarded as having a share in the theft of the castings from the Janesville Machine company, for which Ernest Beyers was given one year at Waupun. Yesterday Chief Hogan was notified by the Fond du Lac police that the man is in their custody, being held for instructions.

Wood will be brought here and given a hearing in the municipal court, where Beyers was given his trial.

Must Steal Horses
It seems that it is physically impossible for Henry Hammes to keep his hands from a horse which he admires. After having been twice sent up for horse theft from this city, both times under the term of office of Sheriff Acheson, he is implicated in stealing a horse near Rockford, and is now in the hands of the officers of the law there.

When Hammes made his escape with the horse he fled in the direction of Madison, and it was in Dane county that he was captured. He is now awaiting trial.

It Makes a Difference.

The Countess of Castellane on one of her visits to this country after her marriage, said that her sons were to be American as well as French. For instance, they were to come here to college, and were to learn American business methods. They do not seem to have made much progress in that part of their education, as on their first trip here they asked about the flag with the red and white stripes, and the blue in one corner.

BLIND ALUMNI THROUGH SCHOOL

ABOUT SEVENTY RETURN TO ASSOCIATION REUNION.

THE RECEPTION LAST EVENING

Graduates of Institute Met Superintendant and Mrs. C. R. Showalter for First Time.

With a very pleasant reception to meet Supt. and Mrs. C. R. Showalter, the tri-yearly reunion of the alumni association of the State School for the Blind began last evening.

In point of attendance the reunion compares favorably with the jubilee reunion three years ago. About seventy graduates of the school were present at the reception last evening. Nearly all of them live in the southern part of the state. With one or two exceptions all of them arrived yesterday. The graduating class of 1903 has remained to participate in their first alumni celebration.

Interesting Meetings

Early this morning the business sessions of the association began. This afternoon there was another meeting. At these papers were delivered by prominent alumni upon the topics of peculiar interest to the blind.

A concert which promises to be of unusual excellence will be given this evening. Piano, violin, flute, and vocal solos will fill the program.

Tomorrow the discussion at the different sessions will continue, and on Thursday the alumni will depart, after what promises to be one of the most interesting reunions which the association has held.

Stay at Institute

The alumni are all quartered in the institute in the rooms occupied during the year by the students. Everything is being done to provide for their comfort and to make the reunion one of the most pleasant events in many years. All of the students and all but three or four of the instructors have departed, leaving the alumni practically in entire control of the building.

Mothers' Meeting: A Mother's meeting is to be held Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock, at the home of Mrs. N. E. Held, 232 Washington street. After a short program an informal reception will be given for the new members of the W. C. T. U. All members of the union are expected to be present to welcome them. All women are invited to these mothers' meetings.

Any minute after purchase I promise to pay to any person in the city of Janesville, not satisfied with the goods bought at my store, the full amount paid for the same. I am not here to baffle the people. I give value received every time. A child is served in the same courteous manner as the parent. Deliveries are prompt.

POWDER KILLS BERWYN WOMAN

BODY IS FEARFULLY BURNED

Flesh Is Charred From Her Head to Her Waist—Twelve-Year-Old Son Is Overcome by the Calamity to His Mother.

Chicago, June 23.—Ninety pounds of flashlight powder in the basement of a residence at Berwyn exploded and caused the death of Mrs. Mary Wilson, wrecked the house and created a panic among the children of the living school on adjoining property.

Mrs. Wilson, in whose residence the explosion occurred, was burned from her head to her waist and her flesh charred. She lived until evening, retaining consciousness long enough to explain the disaster, and died at the residence of a neighbor.

Windows Are Broken.

The force of the explosion was so great that the floor above the basement was bulged upwards several inches, while a piano in the room was thrown to one side and toppled over. The walls of the basement were forced outward, and every window in the house was broken. Many windows in the Irving school and in James S. Keeler's residence also were broken.

Mrs. Wilson lived at Thirty-fifth street and Irving avenue and was working in the basement forming the powder into cones ready for a supply house in Chicago. She had almost completed her task when the explosion occurred.

Friction Causes Explosion.

The powder had become caked from dampness and Mrs. Wilson was rubbing it vigorously between her hands to reduce it, and this friction, it is believed, caused the powder to explode.

There were three explosions, which filled the basement so full of smoke it was with difficulty that Mrs. Wilson was reached. She was found lying on the floor near where she had been working. After she had been carried from the place the fire department was summoned and the flames which followed the last explosion were soon extinguished.

Son Is Prostrated.

Mrs. Wilson had a dry goods store in the suburb and she also earned money by forming these flashlight powder cones. She was 45 years old and had three sons, the oldest 19 years. Hoyt, 12 years old, the youngest, was so affected by his mother's death that he was prostrated and physicians are attending him. He was in the Irving school at the time of the explosion.

ROOSEVELT REMOVES JUDGE FROM BENCH

Gross Immorality Is Charged Against Member of the New Mexican Supreme Bench.

Washington, June 23.—President Roosevelt has removed Judge Daniel H. McMillan of the Supreme court of the territory of New Mexico because of charges of gross immorality. Judge Clement C. Smith of Hastings, Mich., was named as his successor.

The charges against Judge McMillan have been pressed vigorously for many months. It is charged that he is accompanied on his judicial rounds of the territory of New Mexico by a woman with whom his relations were of a scandalous nature.

Last fall Attorney General Knox, after an investigation of the charges, recommended that he be removed. At the instance of influential friends of Judge McMillan, the recommendation of the attorney general was held up pending a rehearing of the case. At the second hearing John G. Milburn of Buffalo, a long time personal friend of Judge McMillan, made a strong plea for his retention, but it was of no avail.

Judge Smith, who is to succeed Judge McMillan, is one of the best known lawyers of Michigan and is held in high regard by officials of the department of justice.

Judge McMillan was born at York, Livingston county, N. Y., in 1848, and took up his residence in Buffalo in 1869 as a student of law. In that city he held until his appointment by McKinley in 1901, and he gained recognition as one of the most influential and successful members of the Buffalo bar.

A DISASTROUS FORLORN HOPE

July 12, 1863

ANNIVERSARY
WAR STORY

[Copyright, 1903, by G. L. Kilmer.]

IN a chance affair of arms at Jackson, Miss., July 12, 1863, a brigade of Illinois and Iowa troops engaged in what the participants call the most disastrous charge of the war. The following is the narrative of Colonel E. T. Lee, who led a company of the Forty-first Illinois that day and was twice wounded:

"On July 5, 1863, just after the Federal army had captured Vicksburg, with its 27,000 prisoners and all the paraphernalia of the forts, with the thousands of small arms, General W. T. Sherman was ordered by Grant to proceed to Jackson, Miss., and drive the Confederate army under General Joseph E. Johnston from Jackson and the Mississippi valley. Sherman took with him 35,000 men, including Lauman's division of the Thirteenth army corps, commanded by General E. O. C. Ord.

"The line closed in on the city and drove the Confederates back to their breastworks. The city was invested from Pearl river on the north to the Mississippi Central railroad on the south. Lauman's division was ordered to take position on the south, and Colonel Isaac C. Pugh's brigade, composed of the Twenty-eighth, Forty-first and Fifty-third Illinois and Third Iowa infantry, was selected to fill the gap between the railroad and Pearl river and drive the enemy into his works.

"There was no thought on the part of General Sherman that there would make his voice heard above the din of battle, gave the order for recall. But it was too late. Oh, the carnage of that hour, the sad havoc of some officer's mistake! Out of those 900 who went in the charge history gives the figures that 645 were killed and wounded. There were a few made prisoners of war who had charged over the enemy's works.

"Among the officers killed were Colonel Seth Earl of the Fifty-third Illinois, Major Frank M. Long of the Fifty-first Illinois and other line officers, while hundreds of the boys in blue were sleeping their last sleep on that fatal field. The colors were the special targets of the enemy's artillery. The blue field flag of the Forty-first Illinois had two of its bearers wounded and four killed. The last to hold this flag was Sergeant Samuel R. Hall of Company F. He was wounded twice. The last time he was shot he fell near the Confederate works, and two big 'Johnnies' took his flag from him. The flag was sent to Richmond as a trophy of war and returned to the regiment in 1866. It is now in Memorial hall in the statehouse in Springfield, stained with the blood of the brave boys who went down underneath its folds that day at Jackson.

"The color bearer of the Fifty-third Illinois was Sergeant George Poundstone of Ottawa. He carried his flag almost to the breastworks, and, stopping by a small tree, the summer of one of the pieces of the New Orleans artil-be an assault made on the enemy's works, for he was four miles away at the time of the charge and knew nothing of it. We had been maneuvering all the morning in the timber, driving the Confederates back and slowly advancing until we had them into their works and had gone to the edge of the timber that lay along the open field in front of their works. Colonel Pugh saw that to advance further meant an assault or sure death in open field. He ordered the men to lie down to protect themselves from the shells of the enemy, which were flying over our heads in a lively manner. Just then an orderly rode up to General Lauman and handed him an order, 'which he read and immediately sent Colonel Pugh forward.

"Scarcely had the word been spoken when the remnants of these four old regiments, about 900 men in all, moved forward with a terrific cheer that almost made the earth tremble. Forward, they go, right into the jaws of death, for they are facing the famous New Orleans Light artillery, one of the finest batteries in the field; also Mebane's Tennessee battery, Cobb's Kentucky battery and General Breckinridge's division of veterans, behind impregnable breastworks.

"A large house had been torn down in front of the works to keep the Federal troops from making a lodgment, and the piano had been taken into the parapet of the Louisiana artillery, and the boys were singing and playing when the blue line bore down upon them. Instantly the notes were hushed, and the heavy shriek of the shrapnel and shell was heard sweeping death and destruction over that fatal field. On goes the charging column; but, see, the ranks are falling like wheat before the sickle. The batteries are using double charges of grape and canister on them and the air is laden with iron hail.

"A section of the Fifth Ohio battery follows up the charge, and see those gallant boys! Every horse is killed, and almost every man who belonged to the battery has gone down in the struggle to help out the infantry. We look again and see the shattered line has reached the breastworks and some have gone over them into the ranks of the enemy only to be made prisoners. Colonel Pugh, as soon as he could level his gun at the flag. When he saw that he was about to be taken he said, 'They can't get the flag unless they get me.' Reaching up, he tore it from the staff and was in the act of putting it under his jacket when the gun was fired and a shell struck brave Poundstone, almost severing his head from his body. This flag went to Richmond with the others and also returned, and may now be seen in Memorial hall, along with the other colors of the Fifty-third Illinois.

"The recall was sounded, and what was left of the gallant brigade rallied around the remaining colors. There were gathered around the old stars and stripes of the Forty-first forty-seven men, some of them slightly wounded. Sergeant H. M. Streeter of Argenta carried this flag, and with his flagstaff shot in two and the flag torn and ridicled with bullets and shells he brought it off the field in triumph. Over two-thirds of the men who had gone into the charge had been killed and wounded or taken prisoners. It was a fearful mistake on the part of some one. General Lauman was placed under arrest. He demanded an investigation, but died without any being made. His mind became deranged brooding over this fearful charge. He always said that he was not to blame for the great loss of his men.

"On the 14th a flag of truce was sent to General Johnston by Sherman, and there was a cessation of hostilities for two hours to bury the dead, which was done by the Confederates. We were permitted to be present on the field in order that we might recognize our boys. On the 16th General Johnston evacuated Jackson and our army returned to Vicksburg. There was no charge during the war that was more disastrous to the number engaged than the charge at Jackson, Miss., July 12, 1863."

Colonel Pugh put the strength of his brigade at 880 men and the casualties of the charge 535 in all. Colonel Lee was twice wounded, but says that he was not counted among the casualties, and he thinks at least 100 casualties in the brigade did not get reported. The colonel of his regiment, John H. Hale, was stunned and disabled, and Colonel Aaron Brown, of the Third Iowa severely wounded.

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Tuesday, June 23, 1863.—The rebels appear not to have given up the idea of invading Pennsylvania. They are advancing again with large numbers upon Chambersburg, which is 52 miles from Harrisburg.

Another enrolling officer has been shot in Dodge county in this state, and troops have been ordered there to put a stop to such performances. It is about time some of these assassins should be punished.

The capture of the rebel ram Flugal at Savannah by our gunboats, is said to be the first decisive fight which ever occurred between iron-clads. The Flugal was armed with five Enfield 100-pounders, and was piloted with two and one-half-inch iron.

with the enemy in the rear of Vicksburg. They were at Young's Point on the 11th, as we learn from a letter written by Lieut. Sargent of this city.

Mr. J. N. Webster of Illinois has just invented a machine for stoning cherries, plums, peaches and such fruit. It is said to do the work in admirable style, leaving the fruit when separated from the stone, as plump looking as before.

The following officers were elected for the new military company of this city: Capt. G. W. Roberts, 1st Lieut. W. W. Wheeler, 2nd Lieut. J. F. Mack.

Capt. Isaac Miles of the 2nd regiment has resigned on account of ill health and returned home.

The sixth company of the first negro regiment of the district of Columbia have been mustered into service.

Substitute a Cigar Sign.

During a recent social campfire, held at the big round table in the quartermaster's corner of a comrade's canteen by several Grand Army survivors, says a writer in the Philadelphia Ledger, the major was called upon to contribute his share of the heroic and humorous reminiscence.

"Well, boys," replied he, manipulating the seltzer siphon with his left hand—whatever remains of his sword arm being somewhere near "Hell's Angle," on the field of Gettysburg—"you ought to know by this time that I can draw a small pension much easier than I can tell a funny story, and I can just now recall but one, and in that you'll be apt to find more truth than tickle."

"At the time of the first draft I was stationed in Buffalo as recruiting officer for my regiment, and the price of substitutes to fill allotted quotas often reached a bigger figure in greenbacks than a common soldier could earn in a couple of years. So universal and overwhelming was the patriotic desire to be huskily represented by somebody else in defending old glory that even Indians were accepted for that purpose. Buffalo, too, was the biggest recruiting station in the whole country, and as such a golden field for a small army of bounty brokers, among whom one 'Cy' Phillips was conspicuous.

"Under these conditions Phillips was approached one day by an individual, with 'hayseed' written all over him, from his flapping straw hat to his tattered cowhide boots, who stated he had an Indian, as sound as second-growth hickory, whom, for pressing and plausible reasons, he was willing to dispose of for the small sum of $400, cash on the nail.

"Where is he?" eagerly inquired Phillips, whose cupidry was blindly stimulated by the fact that substitutes were in extraordinary demand, prices way up and soaring, and competition red-hot.

"I've got him locked up in a barn down on Canal street, and here's the key," explained the rural dickerer.

"This apparently innocent and sincere assurance was accepted by Phillips, who paid over the amount demanded and hastened to take possession of his aboriginal gold mine.

In opening the barn door he was startled to find himself confronted in the dim light by a huge, ferocious savage, holding a tomahawk in his uplifted hand.

"Here, now, no nonsense," cried Phillips, as he fell back. "I've bought you and paid for you, and neither a dollar nor a drink do you get unless you behave yourself."

"But the big Indian stolidly and silently retained his threatening attitude; nor could he well do otherwise for as Phillips pulled himself together and his eyes became accustomed to the gloom he discovered that he was the unhappy purchaser of a wooden cigar store chief, and one undoubtedly as sound as warranted."

THE MEN AND WOMEN

Who Enjoy the Choicest Products of the World's Commerce.

Knowledge of What Is Best More Important Than Wealth Without It.

It must be apparent to every one that qualities of the highest order are necessary to enable the best of the products of modern commerce to obtain permanently to universal acceptance. However loudly heralded, they may not hope for world-wide preeminence unless they meet with the general approval, not of individuals only, but of the many who have the happy faculty of selecting, enjoying and learning the real worth of the choicest products. Their commendation, consequently, becomes important to others, since to meet the requirements of the well informed of all countries the method of manufacture must be of the most perfect order and the combination the most excellent of its kind. The above is true not of food products only, but is especially applicable to medicinal agents and after nearly a quarter of a century of growth and general use the excellent remedy, Syrup of Figs, is everywhere accepted, throughout the world, as the best of family laxatives. Its quality is due not only to the excellence of the combination of the laxative and cathartic principles of plants known to act most beneficially on the system and presented in the form of a pleasant and refreshing liquid, but also to the method of manufacture of the California Fig Syrup Co., which ensures that uniformity and purity essential in a remedy intended for family use. Ask any physician who is well informed and he will answer at once that it is an excellent laxative. If at all eminent in his profession and has made a special study of laxatives and their effects upon the system he will tell you that it is the best of family laxatives, because it is simple and wholesome and cleanses and sweetens the system effectually, when a laxative is needed, without any unpleasant after-effects. Every well-informed druggist of reputable standing knows that Syrup of Figs is an excellent laxative and is glad to sell it, at the regular price of fifty cents per bottle, because it gives general satisfaction, but one should remember that in order to get the beneficial effects of Syrup of Figs it is necessary to buy the genuine, which is sold in original packages only; the name of the remedy—Syrup of Figs and also the full name of the company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package.

Small Things About the Orchard.

In a talk to fruit growers R. Morrill said: If I were to have an orchard to lay out in an ideal manner I would have it laid out with a view of being able to do all the work in that orchard economically, to be able to gather the fruit economically. I will mention one thing to call your attention to what I mean. If there is no other reason, no climatic reason, why a tree should have a long body, I would give it a short body, because by and by you have got to prune that tree, and every foot you raise that tree in the air you have expended energy from the beginning of the pruning of the tree to the end of its existence in going up and down ladders; every foot means that percentage of extra labor for every man that goes up and down that ladder thousands and thousands of times during the life of that tree. That means a difference of 10 per cent on your expense; it might make 20 per cent difference on your expenses. Those are little things, but those are among the little things that count so much. So I say, unless there is some other excellent reason why you should not do it, I would advocate short bodies. Another reason is there is not the same leverage from the wind on the short body that there is on a long body. By the same rule I would shorten my limbs and keep my tree compact and open for the same purpose; it is economical. I say "open" here, but if I were clear down in southern Illinois probably I would not say open, because the question of protection from the hot and scalding sun makes a difference. That is why I wish to modify my statement, and what I say may be open to criticism if taken in a different locality.

It is evident that slugs is to be a great factor in the future feeding of cattle in Illinois and neighboring states. The digestions of cattle are worn out by too high feeding of concentrated stuffs. Besides, the waste in undigested material is great. Slugs comes in as a kind of feed that helps out the others and saves the digestive apparatus of the animals.

Mixed Poultry Raising.

There will always be some poultry raisers that will find it to their advantage to devote their efforts to the production of one kind of poultry product and that too from one breed. But there will always be more who will take pleasure in raising a variety of breeds and producing various things to market. The specialist will turn his intensive efforts into money, but his plant will be idle a large part of the year. Whether a poultryman is to be a specialist or follow some plan for putting on the market a variety of poultry products must depend on the person, especially on his particular bias of mind in this matter. The man that follows mixed poultry raising has some advantages over the specialist. He can keep his labor employed all the year around. This is no small advantage if the plant is large enough to require the labor of one man. Moreover, he can place upon the market some kind of produce during every month of the year. In the spring he has broilers to sell; in the summer, fat hens; in the fall, marketable cockerels; and the winter eggs. A continuous revenue will thus be assured. It is a question how far mixed poultry raising should be carried. There are some poultry men that boast of having over 80 varieties of land and water fowls, and in addition several kinds of pigeons. It is no small task to educate oneself on the different ailments to which so many breeds are subject. In many cases mixed poultry raising is advisable, but it should be followed with moderation.

Sickles are the long, curved feathers of a cock's tail, properly applied only to the top pair, but sometimes used for one or two pairs besides.

Suicide Leaves Warning. St. Louis, Mo., June 23.—After writing a farewell letter of advice to the youth of the land, warning them against the many temptations and pitfalls which are strewn in life's pathway, John Elft of Alton, Ill., committed suicide in Forest Park by shooting himself.

Clew in Umbria Plot. New York, June 23.—A clew to the placing of the dynamite bomb on the steamship Umbria was found when detectives arrested Joseph Figmaro and George Bruno of West Hoboken. On one of them was a paper relating to the Cunard pier dynamite mystery.

She Wondered. They were hanging over the gate to St. Paul's churchyard during the police parade. The bands were playing popular melodies. "What do you think would happen," said she in a low voice, "if that band suddenly started to play, 'Please Go 'Way and Let Me Sleep'?" —New York Press.

ANOTHER SHOW BY MYERS GRAND

Walton Pyre Will Bring a Company Here on the Ninth of July.

Although the Myers Grand is dark for the warm season, so great a society attraction as a performance by prominent Madison young people has induced the management to announce one more engagement before the commencement of the fall bookings.

On Thursday, July 9, "A Russian Honeymoon" will be presented in this city. The cast includes several of the Otis Skinner company, notably Walter H. Pyre—all of whom are now enjoying their summer vacation.

Besides these members of the "profess" a number of the Capital City's society leaders, who have exhibited marked Thespian talent, will swell the cast to a goodly number. Their presence will lend distinction to the company, and probably make the performance an occasion for a red-letter society gathering at the Grand. Miss Pola La Follette, daughter of the governor, will carry a leading part.

An itinerary of a number of days has been arranged for the "Russian Honeymoon," time having been secured in Milwaukee, as well as in a number of smaller cities in southern Wisconsin.

COUNCIL MEMBERS ARE NOT PRESENT

Meeting Last Night Was Adjourned Until This Evening Owing To Absentees.

Only five members of the common council—Aldermen Judd, Mills, Lowell, Sale and Schwartz—answered roll call last evening, and adjournment was taken until this evening. A quantity of routine business must be disposed of, approving bills and reports, but otherwise the clerk has no communications to bring before the council.

It is of the greatest importance that a quorum be present this evening to take action on certain financial matters.

If the police committee see fit an ordinance prohibiting wine rooms and stalls in saloons may be presented this evening. In his report some weeks ago the chief of police recommended that some action of that kind be taken, and that the ordinance be passed in time for the saloon proprietors to make necessary changes before applying for licenses.

At the next meeting of the council the licenses will be granted for the coming year, and if the ordinance recommended is passed it is felt by several aldermen that it should be done tonight. Otherwise the saloon keepers might rebel against having the changes required after they had paid their licenses.

The ordinance prohibiting the sale of large fireworks is due for its third reading and passage tonight. The sentiment of many of the council seems to favor holding it over until after the fourth, in order to do justice to those dealers who have already laid in their stock of fireworks.

CUMMINS FAILS TO END STRIKE

Governor's Effort to Settle Labor War at Dubuque Is Vain.

Dubuque, Iowa, June 22.—Governor Cummins arrived here to investigate the street car strike. After conferring with the Union Electric Company, the strikers and business men he concluded to let the militia remain for the present, as the business men feared the consequences of its withdrawal. The governor sought to obtain a settlement. A verbal proposition made to the governor by the company was carried to the men by President Urick of the Iowa Federation of Labor and State Labor Commissioner Brigham. When the men reached the hotel to sign they found that what the company offered was its original proposition and they withdrew. The governor left for Pennsylvania, the other state officers remaining to continue efforts to obtain a settlement.

WARE DECLINES A NOMINATION

Pension Commissioner Notifies Kansas Politicians He Is No Candidate.

Topeka, Kan., June 22.—Eugene F. Ware, United States commissioner of pensions, telegraphed to Topeka: "I have no desire to succeed Judge W. C. Hook on the bench; am not a candidate and would not have the office." Mr. Ware has been mentioned by Kansas politicians as a good man to succeed Judge Hook, who was recently appointed to succeed Judge Caldwell.

ENFORCE DRASTIC SUNDAY LAW

Sabbath Closing Is Strictly Observed at Hot Springs, Ark.

Hot Springs, Ark., June 22.—A drastic Sunday closing law has gone into effect here. Not even a newspaper was sold. Shops and stores were closed and milk and ice wagons were not allowed to deliver their goods. All places of amusement were void of music. One man was arrested for selling chewing gum, and an alderman who conducts a grocery was arrested for having his door open.

Asparagus Farms.

In California they raise asparagus in large lots. On one of the reclaimed Bouldin Islands there is a farm of 2,000 acres devoted exclusively to the growing of this vegetable, the crops of which are large enough to supply one cannery.

A Few Examples Of Condict Humor

There is at least one humorist in prison. He is now known to the world as "Napanoch, 80,487," and his jokes are printed in the Star of Hope as follows:

Peter—Say, teacher, you must have a liquid voice.
Teacher (surprised)—Why so, Peter?
Peter—Why, you never dry up.

Swift—Say, Buffalo, I've found out that a pig is not the only thing that squeals.

Dan—You're quite an enthusiast.
Buff—I am.

Dan—Yes, you are, and if some one would send you on a wild goose chase you'd speak of yourself as a sportsman.

Slippery Josh—Do you believe fiction is stranger than truth?

Slim—Why, yes. Every time I tell the P. K. the truth it sounds so strange that I see the "cooler."

Teacher—Who can describe a hill or mountain?

Rainbow (rising)—Sir, a hill or mountain is a sock or a pair of socks which have just come from the state shop all darned up.

A man bought a horse for $250 and he sold it for a cent and a half for every nail in the horse's foot, doubling the price on every nail. What did he sell the horse for, or did he gain or lose, and how much?

"A 'wise guy' knows it all till some one else comes up and shows him something else."

Taking No Chances.

The girl who had fallen into the water screamed frantically for help.

"Save me! Save me!" she cried.

The man on the bank hesitated.

"I'm a married man," he said, "and I have seven children. I want that distinctly understood."

"Yes, yes; but save me!" cried the girl.

"I can't marry you if I do," urged the man.

"No, no; only save me!"

"If any girl falls into my arms and calls me her preserver there's going to be a whole lot of trouble."

"I won't."

"Well, I'll tackle the job," he said as he threw aside his coat. "You see, I was caught on one of these preserver deals once, and that's how I come to be married, so I'm disposed to be just a little bit cautious."—Brooklyn Eagle.

"Yes, yes; but save me!" cried the girl.
